The Ballot Box

The time will soon be here when the people of Canada will be called upon to cast their vote. At no time in Canadian history has its citizens had such a responsibility on their shoulders. There are a good many people who are in a dilemma as to how they should vote, which is in a sense the change of times in our political life, and that the individual voter is beginning to think for himself. This is a great step, because it goes to prove that Canada's citizens have come to the conclusion that they must have a better system of government, and therefore they are giving this question their serious thought.

A vote, especially at this critical stage is a most sacred privilege and it behooves every man and woman to think seriously before they cast their vote, otherwise they may repent at leisure. The time has come when we must take a broader view of things. To cast aside the petty differences which are in our midst and take a panoramic view of the whole situation of the world, and then we may get a faint idea as to the colossal task which is before the nations who are fighting for their very existence, and for a cause in which we uphold.

Let not creed, sect or party-step in to debar the way for national progress. Everybody is desirous that Canada should hold the reputation, and that she should have her glorious deeds written in the pages of history. Let it not be said of her the coming generation that our selfishness and reluctance was the cause of Canada's downfall.

At a time like the present the country needs the best men it can produce. The men who have the backbone to denounce that which is wrong, and to speak their convictions no matter what the costs may be. A man who reasons for himself and not instructed by his leader. These are the class of men Canada wants today. A man who will help to elevate the political life of Canada on to a higher plane, and will not be moulded like a piece of putty into any shape to be used as a tool for his political party, in order that he may receive some material benefit for himself. If these changes are to be wrought, the electors must think for themselves, and not be tossed from one side to the other like acorn on the ocean, by any political leader. Remember the day of opportunity is near when you may strike the blow which will help to bring about the first step to abolish political graft. You choose the tune and you pay the price. Then cast your vote and when doing so have a clear conscience that you voted not merely for your own individual gain, but for that of your neighbor and your country, and for the principle that a Christian should have for the nation that upholds the right.

A Hospital For Oyen

At last arrangements are underway for the building of a hospital in Oyen and it will not be long before it will be ready for use. At a meeting of the Board of Trade last week details of the scheme were thoroughly thrashed out, and although it will not be a large building, yet it will accommodate a quite a number of patients, and as time goes on and the town increases the building will be enlarged in proportion.

As usual the ladies of the town have shown a keen interest in the movement and have undertaken to furnish the hospital with beds.

Jos. Longuey, seven miles south east of Oyen, will sell his farm stock and implements on Wednesday, Nov. 28. See posters for full particulars.

Miss S. A. Reid of Calgary has accepted a position on the staff of the Bank of Hamilton here.

Herman Waldroff of section 11, 28, 6, three miles south east of Cereal, will sell the whole of his farm stock and implements on Monday, Dec 3rd, see posters for full particulars.

The information has been received by the Alaska News that Howard J. King, who was supposed to have been apprehended in the States is still enjoying his liberty. As yet the police have been unable to locate him but are under the impression that he is hiding in Kansas City, Missouri—Alaska News

FARMER'S VACATION TIME.

The farmer's vacation time is here—all farmers take a vacation—if any do not, they certainly should. Vacation time, of course, means a holiday and a change of climate if possible, a change of surroundings anyway. A change from the general routine, which most at intervals become monotonous. Even a change of fare is sometimes anything but uneventful. Take a trip—somewhere—anywhere—and just mention your intention to the nearest Canadian Northern agent we'll do the rest, and we'll do it right. We have here all—the Service—Equipment—Dining Car—View—Standard Sleeping Cars—Newest and Best of Tourist Cars and Day Coaches, electric lighted with every latest improvement, all of which with the convenience of the attendant make up a service that Canadians are likely to mention when talking in circles in a hotel.

TRAVEL PREDICTED HEAVY

According to Mr. Todd there is every indication that people will travel this winter in the tourist style of the tourist sleeper, though he said the majority of people have only a vague idea of what a tourist car really is. Some people, never having ridden in one of these cars, seem to have a busy imagination of something, not exactly a bus car and not exactly a standard sleeper, contrivance built for accommodation, but not for comfort. The reason for this erroneous idea is, no doubt, due to the fact that in this country the great bulk of travel is first-class, while in the old coun- on the continent the recognized mode of transportation in this country not only exceeds that of a like class in European countries, but will compare very favorably with the best.

The Canadian Northern Railway has now surpassed itself in the tourist car it is now operating throughout the main lines of its system. These cars, besides being the newest, have all the appointments similar to those of a standard sleeper.

The linen, blankets and pillows being of the same quality and freshness. Many of the little conveniences, hitherto unknown outside his pampered brother, the standard sleeper, have been borrowed and permanently installed in the tourist sleeping car. It provides practically all the luxuries at something like half the expense.

"The Birth of a Nation"

It is probably too early in the history of moving picture photography to assert positively that any film is the "best" in photo-play production. It can be easily said, however, that "The Birth of a Nation" which is being staged at Oyen, represents the highest accomplishment that the world has yet seen visualized on the screen. Mr. Griffith's production gives a splendid idea of the many advantages that the pictures have over the "legitimate" stage for presenting certain types of stories. Where variety, action and spectacular bigness are necessary, the stage has always failed to be quite adequate, but to the possibilities that lie within the scope of the pictured drama, there is no limit. For example, the battle scenes and the assassination of Lincoln, as shown in "The Birth of a Nation", might be photographs of actual occurrences, so realistic as they are in every detail. The production, as everyone is aware is based upon Thomas Dixon's novel, "The Clansman" and as those who remember the story might expect, it shows a decided sympathy for the gallant south, nevertheless, however, in no way distort the actual occurrences of those perilous times in which the action of the drama took place. The photo play has been universally pronounced a marvelous achievement.
